General Clarke.) I have just inspected the 37th fantry; I can't wish to see a finer body of soldiers, on't expect to see a worse one of officers. If your Lad laid itself out to appoint the most incapable of France, it couldn't have succeeded better; the i laugh at them. They are drawn from colonial, >utch battalions, or from the national guards of :enees or of the Scheldt; most of the captains have >een under fire. I shall have to dismiss these offireduce them in rank.
, I shall be at Weimar at noon. I shall stop only ,er of an hour to see the Duchess. I shall then get j saddle and place myself at the head of the Guard. , Naumburg:
Prince Eugene.) Shift towards Merseburg with bole army. The Prince of the Moskowa will prob-ish out an advance guard to-morrow as far as

1st, Weissenfels:
Marshal Marmont.) This morning, May the 1st, iceroy, with 60,000 men, is halfway between iurg and Leipzig. Get your divisions as near Weis-as you can so that you could support Marshal Ney should become necessary.
Prince Eugene.) It is eight o'clock. At nine we tove on Ltltzen. I assume that at ten you will 3ur whole army with its left at Moeritzch, and its t Schladebach. If you hear firing in the direction ;en,

move on the enemy's right, en: ^ambaceres.) To-day I have moved my headquar-